

Call for Proposals

The 35th I.S.E.B. Conference

April 19-21, 2018
San Antonio, Texas

I.S.E.B. (International Society for Educational Biography) invites academics, teachers, graduate students, researchers and anyone who engages aspects of biography in their writing, teaching, research, or other scholarship to submit proposals for its annual conference. Previous papers have come from a variety of disciplines including history, education, English, religion, and many more. We encourage submissions from graduate students.

Possible topics include but are not limited to the following: Collective biographies, role of biography in the history of education, biography and fiction, general biography, plot structures of biographies, biographical criticism, publishing biographies, feminist approaches to life writing, oral history, experimental approaches, ethical issues, methodology, and the use of biography in instruction.

PRESENTATION PROPOSAL INFORMATION: The Conference Program Committee invites individual paper proposals and presentation proposals in other formats (e.g. panel presentation; roundtable discussion; tutorials; workshops). Please complete the Proposal Form to describe your presentation. You will receive notification of proposal acceptance within 21 days. ISEB will provide data projectors. Presenters must bring their own laptops, with appropriate video adaptors (Mac users). For questions, contact Conference Program Chair, Dr. Roy Tamashiro (tamashiro@webster.edu).

Deadline for Proposals: October 31, 2017.

NOTE: Earlier proposal deadline will enable presenters to meet their institutional timeline for requesting funding support.*
